Shauna Martin, CEO & FOUNDER of Daily Greens

I was diagnosed with breast cancer at age 33. My sister Tamara was diagnosed just three weeks later, at the age of 31. Together we underwent two years of treatment, including chemotherapy and double mastectomies.

Today we are both healthy, happy and thriving. But we will never forget the battle we went through, and the battle that so many young women continue to fight daily. We both love to cycle, and together we rode our bikes over 200 miles from Orlando to Palm Beach, Florida to raise money for YSC in Tour de Pink.

I’ve been a cyclist for more years than I can remember, and it has been such a blessing in my life, pre- and post-breast cancer. On my pink bike, I fly, and nothing else in the world seems to matter. It’s just me and the road ahead.

Since the moment I was diagnosed with breast cancer, I have made it my mission in life to not only raise money for other young women battling breast cancer, but to also raise awareness about living life organically. It was this mission that served as the inspiration to found my company Daily Greens, which makes organic cold-pressed green juice.

Cold-pressed juices are organic and nutrient-dense, and are also very high in vital electrolytes, and I personally drink one before, during or after my bike rides.

This year we were proud to provide a Daily Greens juice to all Tour de Pink riders. Visit DrinkDailyGreens.com for more information.
